Subject: Breakup

Justice Department,
Microsoft continues to build and maintain it's monopoly in the computer industry and should be broken-up. The proposed settlement with schools is a clear indication they have not changed. They will continue as they have in the past. A monopoly does more harm than good and the proposed settlement proposed by Justice is inadequate and ineffective.

I owe a PC as well as other computers and I use computers at work daily, so I'm not saying this to hurt Microsoft. I think they are a good company and a bigger monopoly will hurt them more in the long run. This can't go on forever. I think it's better to break them up now, as it will cause less problems than at some point in the future.

Please reconsider the Justice Departments' decision to let Microsoft off the hook. The only effective remedy is to break up the Microsoft monopoly, NOW!

Sincerely,
James Worster
